

EDITORIAL

Dear readers,

Welcome to the December 2019 issue of BJKines...!

It's yet another proud moment for us, as we are unfurling the latest edition of the college magazine. In this edition we have included several academic accomplishments of various departments of this prestigious institution. This conference was awarded to the India's first heritage city Ahmedabad due to its rich historical, cultural and social background.

We are proud to share with you all that in Jan 2020, the Department of Pathology is hosting the silver jubilee international pathology conference in Ahmedabad. This international conference AIICME 2020 is jointly organized by AIPNA and ICP. Record number of delegates, over 750 have registered for this grand scientific event and a very unique attraction is added to this event for the first time that the PG student who wins the 1st prize in poster presentation will be awarded with 1 month observership at The Temple University -Philadelphia, USA. Noble speakers of international and national repute will be spreading the fragrance their knowledge throughout the conference to the participants. After academic feast the delegates will be introduced to rich taste of Gujarati food in Gala dinner and music in Sangeet Sandhya to refresh Mind, Body & Soul.

Conferences and workshops are necessary for continuing education of medical fraternity and PG students in order to update their existing knowledge to the higher levels.

Wishing all our valuable readers a very happy, healthy and prosperous new year 2020. We hope that through the BJKines we all will remain connected, not only as readers but also as prestigious contributors.

Regards.

Dr. Hansa Goswami
